SALVATION OF COAL INDUSTRY IS ELECTRICITY

This is Belief Expressed by F. A. Merrick, Well Known Electrical Figure

GIVES AN INTERVIEW

Tells How Steel Industry Has Already Benefitted Through Its Use

International News Service here-with presents the fist of three exclusive articles of an interview with F. A. Merrick, newly elected president of one of the world's largest producers of Electrical machinery. In this interview Mr. Merrick gives the public a statement of his vision of the future influence of electricity on the economic and social structure of the country.

By Francis L. Armstrong

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

PITTSBURGH, July 5.—The hard pressed coal industry will find its salvation through use of electricity. Thousands of men throughout the country will be provided with jobs, mines will be reopened in the near future and production which has been virtually abandoned in many fields will be resumed, by installation of electrical mine machinery.

F. A. Merrick, president of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, made this prediction to International News Service today—a prediction of the end of one of the country's most acute industrial situations.

The steel industry already has benefited through the use of electrical machinery. Merrick pointed out, and he believes coal mining will find the same solution.

"It is a question of operating costs," Merrick said. "Mines throughout the country have been closed because of economic pressure. Owners not only have been forced to reduce wages to meet needs of the market, many of them have been forced to close their mines, throwing thousands of men out of work, and leaving their families without a source of income."

"But the coal industry will find a way out through cheaper production afforded by electricity."

"Wherever electric machines have been installed they have resulted in immediately increased efficiency, and in reduced overhead. Electricity can be carried cheaply to the point of application, and applied safely with little loss of power."

"Steel production has proved an excellent example of this. Electric motors have been applied to the lifting and transporting jobs, eliminating useless duplication of power plants. In mass production, a multiplication of power plants means that a great deal of the power is lost in transmission, and in running the machine itself, before it is actually applied to the work."

"Electric machinery has been developed which will bring the cost of mining and of transporting coal, after it has been mined, to a point where it can be put on the market at a profit to the producer."

Merrick does not believe that the introduction of electricity will result in throwing any men out of work.

"Rather, those men will be released for more skilled jobs, and for production of other articles which increase the general prosperity of the country," Merrick said. "Following steam, electricity has been made to accommodate nearly any kind of operation in the industrial field."

"The electric motor, because of its ability for fine adjustment of speed and its nice precision in control of loads, has been one of the major factors in reduction of costs of producing nearly every sort of product."

"And as other of the nation's great industries have found electrical their salvation, so will the coal industry."

INDEPENDENTS START OFF WITH VICTORY

Defeat Emilie Y. M. A. in The Opening Battle of Second Half

FINAL SCORE WAS 5 TO 3

By T. M. Juno

The Independents inaugurated the second half of the Bristol Twilight League, Wednesday evening on St. Ann's Field, with a victory over the fast Emilie Y. M. A. team. Score was 5-3.

The Independents showed the best form they put on all season and played with confidence. Emilie was game but found the opposing hurler too tight in the pinches.

Whyno pitched a remarkably good game, allowing five hits and setting down ten on strikes. His best work came with men on base when he was very hard to find. He had his curves down to perfection and had the Emileites hitting the breeze all evening.

The "Indies" twirler was ably supported by his kid battery mate, Angelo, who played like a veteran of the diamond and pegged out three would-be base robbers when they tried to arm him.

"Dea" Praul was almost as good as the winning pitcher. The Independents got 'em for but six singles. His support was very erratic and credit is due to him for holding the score low. Although the Emilie infield made three fast twin-killings, seven errors were committed. Four were credited to J. Morrell, which put Praul in some very difficult situations.

"Dea" Still, former Bristol High School second sacker, made three bags in four trips to the platter.

The Independents began the scoring early in the second round. Avella singled. He advanced to third on Whyno's hit. When J. Morrell booted Rubio's easy roller the satchels were loaded. Lasprella hit to Praul and Avella was out at the plate. Whyno scored on a wild pitch. Angelo struck out.

Emile came back with two in their part. Praul was hit by a pitched ball. H. Morrell hit to Avella who errored. Still scored both runners with a single.

Errors by J. Morrell, H. Morrell and Still, a hit, another error by J. Morrell and a wild pitch scored four runs in the Independents' fourth.

The final run of the game came as a result of an error, hit, passed ball and wild pitch.

St. Ann's plays the Colored A. C. tonight.

YOUNG MAN MEETS DEATH, SWIMMING IN THE NESHAMINY

Carl Schaffer, 25, of Philadelphia, Drowns at Neshaminy Falls

MARRIED ONE WEEK

With Party of Friends Was Enjoying Outing at The Pleasure Park

A bridegroom of one week met his death while bathing at Neshaminy Falls yesterday afternoon. The victim is:

Carl Schaffer, aged 25, of 4724 Whitaker avenue, Kensington, Philadelphia.

In the group of relatives and friends of the young man, who had gone to the pleasure park for a holiday outing, were his bride and his parents.

Schaffer was considered a good swimmer, but at about two o'clock, just after partaking of a very heavy meal, went immediately into the water. He was seized with cramps and before his companions could reach his side he had gone under.

The body was recovered about five minutes later, but all efforts at resuscitation proved futile. Dr. Henry Lovett of Langhorne, assisted with the work in an endeavor to revive the young man.

Members of the South Langhorne detail, State Highway Patrol, were called, and later Deputy Coroner W. Furman Young, of Bristol, was summoned. A certificate showing death was caused by accidental drowning was issued.

The body was removed to the morgue of a Langhorne undertaker, and this morning forwarded to Philadelphia.

Funeral service will be held from the late residence of the deceased on Monday afternoon.

DUTY OF SOCIETY

In the early history of this country—in fact, up to within two generations—parents appeared to feel a real responsibility for the discipline and conduct of their children. Many modern parents seem to hold to the belief that the schools and society should take from them the obligation of child training.

Charles G. Thompson and family moved this week from Philadelphia to newly erected house on Main street near Ford avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Frantz and family are now established at their recently purchased home on Main street, which was occupied some time ago by Mrs. Elizabeth Gillingham.

ANDALUSIA

Daniel Bentz, of Tennis avenue, has just returned from a two day fishing trip.

Misses Margaret and Mary Surad, of Bristol Pike, spent Monday with relatives at Chestnut Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kurtz, of Bristol Pike, were visited by their daughter, Katherine, on Sunday.

Today the responsibility for the training of the youth seems to have been placed upon society, thereby making it possible for many parents to escape the obligations that are theirs by right and to a large extent are considered so by law. Organized society has made it possible for many parents to evade their duties in raising their children.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Richardson and daughter, Gladys, are spending several days at Wildwood.

Miss Mildred Nelson, of Edgewood avenue, spent the weekend with her parents, who are vacationing at their cottage at Seaside Park for a few weeks.

Mrs. A. Correll, of Bristol Pike, spent Saturday shopping in Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Foster, of Locust avenue, left for California by motor on Wednesday. Mr. Foster has a twenty-six week contract with Keith's Circuit there. If business conditions are favorable, the couple may make their permanent home in California. They are taking with them their niece, Miss Mildred Stevenson.

Dr. L. J. Winder and family, of Bristol Pike, after enjoying several weeks in Canada have returned home. Dr. Winder will continue his practice.

TULLYTOWN

The entertainment which was held in Monti's Hall on Main street was well attended, and a decided success. A neat sum was realized on the affair which was given under the auspices of the Tullytown M. E. Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Kissinger and daughter, and Walter S. Johnson, Jr., of Bristol, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher A. Johnson, of Main street, Sunday.

A MAN AND HIS BARBER

A woman reports: "The way they run up the bills on you in the beauty parlors and barber shops is awful. There's always a lot of extras."

So there are. Now the difference between men and women is that man has been going to barber shops for hundreds of years, and woman hasn't. In the course of these centuries, man has learned how to deal with barbers. He knows what he wants before he takes his seat in the chair. If he wants a shave, he gets shaved. If he wants a hair-cut, he gets a hair-cut, and he resists all suggestions of singe, tonic, massage, shampoo, sea-foam, Hairie'de, your-hair's-getting-thin, quite-a-little-fandruff, and all the rest. He knows exactly what the job is going to cost, and how much he'll have left when he walks out.

But a woman is different. She goes in for a trim or a facial, and she comes out looking like a cigar-box picture and $10 short in her accounts. She explains at dinner that she can't understand it. "The girl said a hair in my eyebrow needed pulling and that was 75 cents. Then she gave me a lot of things I didn't order. You'll have to help me out with the house-money again this week."

Oh, well. As they say, the first hundred years are the hardest. After that, women ought to know how to deal with barbers.

As often as one gets something for nothing one gets nothing for something.

Fleurette does not know that Jetteur, the Apache leader, is responsible for the death of her brother. She blames Dr. de Boise, whom she intends to punish by making him fall in love with her. Instead she loses her heart to him. A rift comes in their romance, Fleurette falsely accusing the parish priest of poisoning her sweetheart's mind. The disconsolate doctor seeks Father Colomb to ask his advice.

CHAPTER IX

I SENT Fleurette away, Father," he tells him, "and now I realize how much I love her. You see, Jetteur came to see me yesterday—and he told me Fleurette was his—" The older man lays a sympathetic hand upon his arm, "Like all doctors, you think too much of the flesh and not enough of the spirit, Raoul, my boy!" The doctor bows his head—nothing matters now but Fleurette.

"I HAVE known her since she was a baby," the priest continues, "Let me tell you, no matter what else she may be, she has never belonged to that liar, Jetteur." Raoul's mind is eased. He bids the pastor good-night with a lighter heart. From the organ loft he walks through the church, groping his way through the thick darkness of the great, silent building.

IN the meantime, Fleurette has been spending miserable hours in her little room over the Cafe Paradis. The beautiful temple of her love for Raoul has crashed into ruins. Shattered are all her bright dreams for the future. He seemed to love her once but he was willing to listen to the lies of a fat old priest! To do something to hurt them both is her only desire.

JETTEUR is a resourceful fellow. He takes advantage of every opportunity, including the mood in which he finds Fleurette. There is a way to repay Father Colomb. The chalices and jeweled ornaments in the church are of great value. When darkness has fallen he guides her by a route he knows well and they enter the cathedral through a small trap door in the stone floor.

SPORTS

CROYDON A. C. TIES WITH ANDALUSIA NINE

Andalusia A. C. played their second game of the year, and had the strong Croydon A. C. to a 6-6 tie in a five-inning game. Lack of hitting, which was quite noticeable in the first game again proved to be the weakest point of attack. Coach Shibe shifted his line-up, and to the last part of the line-up goes what hitting honors there were.

"Cnick" Wilkins led his team at bat with two singles out of three trips to the plate, while for the visitors A. Hefflen smacked the tall the hardest with a single and a triple out of three times at bat.

The fourth inning proved to be the big inning for the Andalusians, for two bases on balls, two timely hits, and two errors gave the locals five runs.

The visitors' best inning was the fifth and last inning, when a single two passes, and Hefflen's triple gave the Croydonites three runs, making matters all even.

The baseball team certainly will be busy this week, for on Wednesday night they play the Torrereale A. A., and on Thursday a double header is scheduled with the strong colored team, the Holmesburg Grays, from Holmesburg. Saturday the Indiana F. C. make their appearance on Michell's field.

AT
EMILIE GROUNDS

Game Starts at 3 o'clock

KENT TIGERS LOSE TO EMILIE DIAMOND NINE

Emilie defeated the Kent Tigers 9 to 8, but had to work hard to do it. The hustling Tigers made it a close and exciting game all the way. They tied up the score twice during the game and went into the 9th inning with a one-run lead, however, with the scored one out and the winning run on third. Leo Tyrell poked a single into right field that ended the game. Afflerbach with two doubles out of two times at bat and Bruce with three out of 4 led the attack for Emilie. Black had 12 strike-outs. Kewpie stole home twice and Matty handled seven chances in centerfield in approved fashion.

"Cnick" Wilkins led his team at bat with two singles out of three trips to the plate, while for the visitors A. Hefflen smacked the tall the hardest with a single and a triple out of three times at bat.

The fourth inning proved to be the big inning for the Andalusians, for two bases on balls, two timely hits, and two errors gave the locals five runs.

Now Knows Why Peerless Compound is Known to Have More Than A Million Friends

MR. B. F. DRUMMOND, JR.

"What a wonderful sensation it is to be well again after suffering for years from constipation, indigestion and faulty liver and kidney," said Mr. B. F. Drummond, Jr., 155 North Fifteenth street, Philadelphia. "After every meal gas and pains came, and many nights I could not sleep because of the agony. I was constipated days at a time. No wonder my system was filled with poisons."

The results I obtained from Konjola were little short of marvelous. In three weeks time I could eat and digest any food. My nights were filled with refreshing sleep, and the impurities were swept from my system. My nerves are calm and life is a joy. It is hard to believe that Konjola made this change in just three weeks."

Konjola is sold in Bristol at Hoffman's Cut Rate store, and by all leading druggists in all towns throughout this entire section. (Adv.)

Insurance Organizations Serve Modern Home Movement

HOME QUICKLY RENTED WHEN MODERNIZED

Those old houses that stand idle month after month are losing money for some one. The old house in the lower illustration was just such a case. Not only was it a drain on the owner's pocket book, but also an eyesore in the neighborhood.

Old property like this is hard to rent. No one wants to move into a decayed looking dwelling no matter how sound the timbers or well constructed the frame. So the old places go begging or are rented at figures that represent losses rather than profits.

Now Make Profits

But in this case the owner was wise. He recognized his handicap, invested a little money in reconstruction and had a modern up-to-date dwelling as the result—a profit-maker and a credit to his acumen.

The old porch which ran around two sides was torn away when the improvements were started. It was ugly, dilapidated and a dust catcher. Instead, a small stoop was built for the entrance from the street, a shingle covered shelter protecting the entrance from occasional storms.

A Sun Room Added

A charming sun room now occupies the place once devoted to the porch. The roof lines over this section have been changed to the advantage of the structure.

Many of the window openings have been enlarged and a pair of sash inserted in these openings. The upper sash of each pair are made with small lights, a style popular at present among builders.

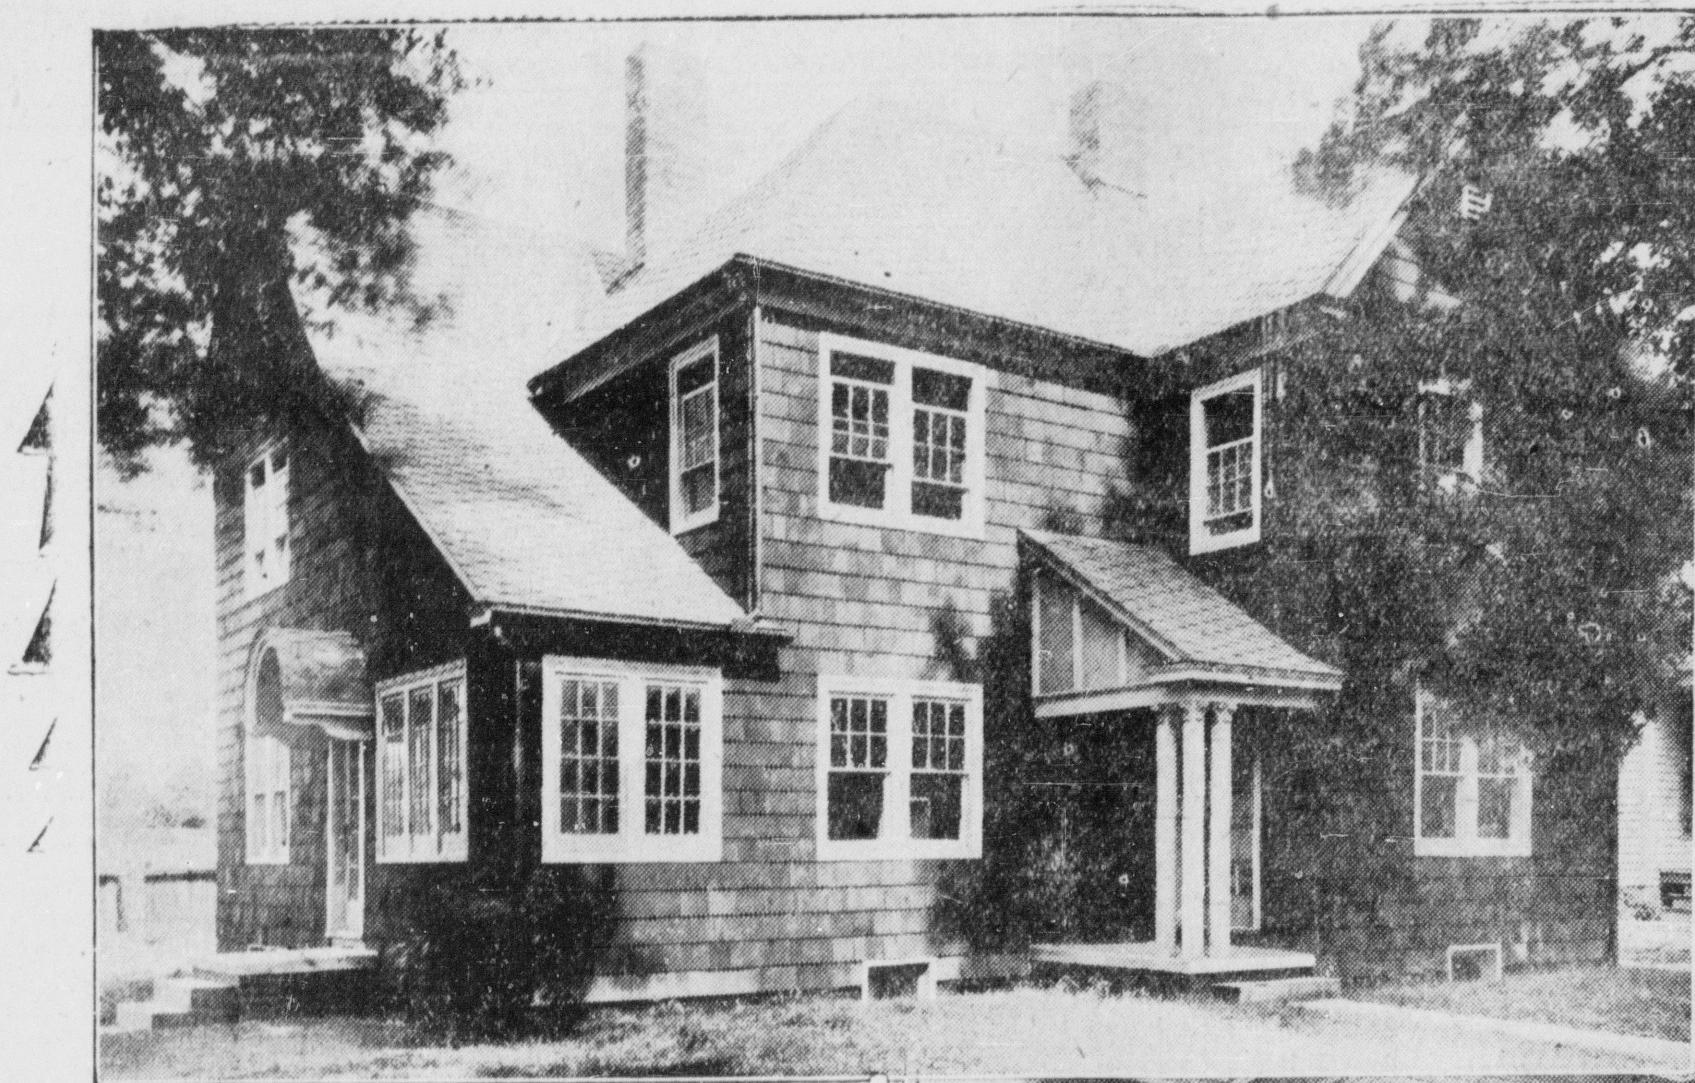

The old tin roof which covered the house was removed and varicolored asbestos shingles used to protect the occupants from storms and fire. Asbestos shingles are meeting with favor among many builders because of their durability, attractive coloring and fire preventative qualities.

The mansard roof affects have been eliminated at each end of the roof by forming gables. Small ventilators with horizontal louvers in these gables thoroughly air the attic.

Few Interior Changes

In general the rooms within the structure remain as originally designed. The sun parlor was added, taking the place of one end of the sprawling porch. A friendly fireplace now adds many seasons without attention. This is a distinct advantage as the large living room.

Old House on Corner Now Modern Home

WINDOW AND DOOR SCREENS OF COPPER PROVE TO BE ABSOLUTELY RUST PROOF

When remodeling the house it will repair bills on screens are few and far between.

Ordinary wire screens rust and quickly shatter. Each spring a few have to be replaced and often before fall holes develop here and there over the surface. Copper screens entirely eliminate this trouble.

When choosing screens make certain that the mesh is fine enough to prevent the entrance of insects yet of such texture that it will not collect and hold dust.

When remodeling the house it will be necessary to make or purchase new screens to guard against flies, mosquitoes and other flying insects.

Many home owners insist that these screens shall be made of copper or bronze with either wood or steel frames.

Copper and bronze screens are rust-proof. They are long-lived and will prevent the entrance of insects yet of such texture that it will not collect and hold dust.

Old houses like these are a drain on the pocket book of the owner. They stand neglected and deserted, an expense and loss. After this house was remodeled it was again photographed and is shown above.

HOME OWNER NEEDS INSURANCE SERVICE

The Owner Is Safeguarded Until Obligations Are Met

Life Insurance Important

Life insurance is another form of protection that is rarely considered when modernizing, yet it plays a very important part in financing the improvements.

Not only the lumber companies, the plumbing shops, the interior decorators' establishments and the electrical supply houses, but also the insurance organizations have a service they can render. Usually the insurance companies are not considered as being interested in the Home Modernizing Movement but nevertheless they have a definite place in the program.

Guard Against Fire

The increased value of the property due to the modernizing of the home makes an increase in the amount of insurance placed on the dwelling necessary. Insurance is protection and the wise owner is going to make certain that his investment is adequately covered against fire.

The thoughtful owner carries plenty of fire insurance not only on the building itself but also on the household goods within.

Various types of policies are available and full details will always be carefully explained by local insurance agents who are experienced in writing policies of this sort.

DELAYED ACTION
frequently is the reason why a property owner is under-insured. While he has been waiting for a chance to order the additional insurance he required, fire has destroyed his property.
The services of a well-organized insurance agency would have made it convenient for him to secure the additional protection when he first realized he needed it.
